Court May Split War Chest Sum

Judge Young Declares He Has No Jurisdiction Over Balance

Members of the committee in charge of the Pickaway County War Chest funds believe the matter of its possible distribution to veterans' organizations should be settled in Common Pleas court.

A meeting of the committee, comprised of C. C. Young, probate judge; Forrest Short, county auditor, and D. A. Yates, commander of the American Legion, was held Tuesday.

Judge Young said that it was not in his power to terminate the trust fund. He believes it should be settled in Common Pleas court.

A petition asking for the distribution of the funds has been filed with the committee by Howard Hall post, American Legion, Circleville; Arch post, American Legion, New Holland, and Henry Page Folsom post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Circleville.

The War Chest fund, donated by residents of the county for the benefit of veterans, originally contained about $8,000. About $2,000 remains, the committee men said.

The veterans' organizations ask that the balance of the funds be divided among the three service groups on the basis of membership.

Reorganization Bill to Face Possible Revision in House

THREE SECTIONS OF ACT FOUGHT BY COMMITTEE

Senate Passes New Deal Measure By 49-42 Ballot

WASHINGTON, March 29—(UP)—The government reorganization bill went to a hostile house committee today. Although it appeared that the bitter fight which marked its passage in the senate would be renewed in the house, there will be no delay in its consideration.

Chairman John J. Cochran, D. Mo., of the house reorganization committee, said that the measure would be considered immediately, but refused to indicate whether an attempt would be made to alter its provisions drastically.

It was from Cochran's committee that the house received its own, more limited reorganization bill last year after President Roosevelt, in a special message to congress, asked for blanket power to transfer and consolidate executive agencies and bureaus.

Three Sections Disputed

Three important sections of the senate bill go beyond the power that the house was willing to authorize, and on these the major house battle probably will center. They are:

1. Drastic reorganization of the civil service. In place of the present commission the senate bill provides for an administrator, assisted by a bi-partisan, seven-member civil service advisory board.
2. Abolition of the comptroller general and his function of checking expenditures before they are made. The senate bill creates an auditor general whose function would be to make a post-audit of expenditures.
3. Creation of a national resources planning board, under the new department of public welfare. The house bill authorized a welfare department, but the lower chamber, (Continued on Page Eight)

WALISA CALLS 17 TO APPEAR IN HIS BEHALF

Seventeen witnesses have been subpoenaed in behalf of Roy Walisa, E. Corwin street, who goes on trial Wednesday on a second charge of receiving and concealing alleged stolen property.

The case, involving two log chains and a sledge, stolen from D. C. Rader, Pickaway township, will be heard by Judge Phil A. Henderson of Logan. A jury was waived.

Walisa was recently fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 15 days in jail on a charge of receiving and concealing two hogs stolen from the Rader farm last December.

The state's witness list had not been filed at noon Tuesday. Those called by the defense were Ellen Walisa, E. Corwin street; Forrest Moss, First avenue; Albert Hapenny, Circleville; John Lewis, E. Ohio street; Robert Johnson, S. Pickaway street; G. W. Martin, Ashville; Elmer Merriman, Town street; Maynard Johnson, E. Ohio street; John Lowery, E. ## Ohio Cities and Counties Demand State Contribute Money to Pay for Relief

CLEVELAND, March 29—(UP)—Faced with a relief deficit in 1938 of $13,500,000, officials of 16 Ohio cities and four counties today were on record as demanding that the state contribute at least one-half of the relief needs in Ohio.

These officials also will ask the legislature, if called into special session, to clear the way for cities and counties to pass their own tax and, other legislation to supply the remaining one-half of relief funds.

The municipal and county officers drafted their proposals at a meeting here last night and will submit the plans to the legislative committee of the Ohio League of Municipalities for submission to Gov. Martin L. Davey.

The legislative committee will be empowered to ask a special session of the legislature before May 1.

GERMAN INSULTS JEW; NEGRO HEARS CHARGE; PRO-NAZI PAYS $25

NEW YORK, March 29—(UP)—Carl Krack, 27, a pro-Nazi, was arrested for insulting a Jewish woman while distributing Nazi literature and so many city magistrates excused themselves either because they were Jews or were prejudiced against Nazis, that his case was assigned to Magistrate Myles A. Paige, a Negro.

Krack had urged the Jewish woman to go back to Jerusalem. Paige said he knew what would happen if someone went to Harlem and urged the Negroes to return to Africa. He fined Krack $25.

PROXY WEDDING LEADS TO COURT FOR ANNULMENT

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 29—(UP)—Annulment proceedings were begun today to set aside the marriage of Michael A. Bonadonna, 25, and Mardell Moore, 22, who became man and wife by accident.

They dropped by the courthouse Saturday, got a license and had Judge Henry Meade marry them. But they didn't tell Judge Meade that Miss Moore meant to serve only as proxy for Miss Virginia McCarthy, 21, who was ill in a hospital.

The license was in Miss McCarthy's name. She and Miss Virginia McCarthy, 21, who was ill in a hospital.

The license was in Miss McCarthy's name. She and Miss Virginia McCarthy are roommates. Miss Moore agreed to take her part, with the understanding that Miss McCarthy really would be Bonadonna's bride and would live with him when she left the hospital.

"I hardly know the man," she said.

Arthur J. Stanley, Jr., county prosecutor, was sympathetic, but there was nothing he could do. The only recourse was to get a lawyer and start annulment proceedings.

"We didn't intend to do any wrong," Bonadonna said. "I just thought it would make Virginia get well faster if we got married."

German Office Declares Nation Must Pledge Good Treatment

HODZA'S TALK CITED

Berlin Is Skeptical Of Government's Plan

BERLIN, March 29—(UP)—A warning to Czechoslovakia regarding the treatment of German minorities was given today by the diplomatic political correspondence, agency of the foreign office, which found Premier Milan Hodza's proposals "disappointing."

"A bad minority policy is bound in the long run to affect dangerously both the internal situation and international relations of a country responsible for it," the agency said in commenting on the premier's speech promising a new era for minorities.

"The right of foreign countries to take an active interest in the problems raised by Prague's minority policy is in no wise restricted to cases foreseen by international law," it said, adding that the premier's speech was "hardly satisfactory."

NEWARK, N. J., March 29—(UP)—Republicans must win the congressional elections next Fall or the party will be in danger of disintegration, John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the national committee told a Republican meeting last night.

Aid Sought In Rabies Campaign

Dr. Blackburn Summons Veterinarians To Conference

Meeting of veterinarians of Pickaway county for a discussion of the immunization of dogs in connection with the rabies quarantine effective April 1, has been called for Thursday, March 31, at 7 p. m. by Dr. A. D. Blackburn, health commissioner.

The meeting will be held in the county health offices in the new addition of the courthouse.

"It is the desire of this department that a standard uniform price be established by all veterinarians who are doing this work and that a uniform procedure be adopted," Dr. Blackburn said.

"I am suggesting that when the animals are immunized that a tag be given to the dog owner and that a certificate of treatment be made in duplicate, one copy given to the dog owner and the other copy sent to this office in order that we may keep a record of all dogs having been treated."

Under the quarantine regulations all dogs that have not been treated for rabies must be confined for 90 days. Dogs that are treated will be permitted to run at large. Those running at large that have not been treated will be confiscated by the dog warden.

Premier Declares War No Longer Civil; German Families Arriving

U. S. ACTIVITY WATCHED

Italy Declines Invitation To Discuss Refugees

BY UNITED PRESS
Spanish insurgent armies fought toward the "key" Catalan city of Lerida today against stiffened but unsuccessful resistance by Loyalist government forces.

On the rolling Catalan frontier where Caesar's hosts once defeated the legions of Pompey, the Italian and German supported Nationalists advanced relentlessly toward the Mediterranean and the end of Spain's long civil war.

The insurgent front, spread over 75 miles, had three spearheads at Barastro on the north, Lerida in the center and around Palanques in the south where the advance was reported only 40 miles from the sea. When and if the sea is reached, Loyalist territory will be split.

The government at Barcelona charged that men and munitions from both Germany and Italy were pouring into Spain anew and called on the people to "resist and resist again."

"No Longer Civil War"

"Our fight is no longer a civil war; it is war against foreign powers," Premier Juan Negrin declared, charging that many German families had arrived in Spain "preparing to remain."

Meantime, developments on the American front emphasized the importance of coming congressional debate on President Roosevelt's billion dollar naval bill and its international implications. They included:

1. A warning by Sen. William E. Borah, R. Ida., that America's hope of saving democratic government lies in avoiding illiances and curing economic ills at home. Borah, ranking member of the senate foreign relations committee, criticized over-indulgence in armaments and said that Austria's seizure (Continued on Page Eight)

T. V. A. INQUIRY GIVEN SUPPORT IN LOWER HOUSE

WASHINGTON, March 29—(UP)—The house rules committee today reported favorably the senate-approved resolution for a joint congressional investigation of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Chairman John O'Connor, D. N. Y., said the resolution, to create an investigating committee of five senators and five representatives, would be called up in the house tomorrow.

The committee amended the resolution slightly to make certain that there would be authority for investigation of every aspect of T.V.A. and its three-member directorate, which lost its chairman, Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, by expulsion order of President Roosevelt.

The action by the rules committee was thought virtually to assure a joint house-senate inquiry into the T.V.A. along the lines proposed by the senate. House sentiment was generally regarded as favorable to this type of investigation.

Another change by the rules committee would require the investigators to report not later than the opening of the next congress Jan. 3, 1939.

HOOVER FAVORS WAR POWER FOR U. S. PRESIDENT

Ex-Executive For Repeal Of Neutrality Law On Return Home

LAMENTS SENATE VOTE

Some Good Points Noted In Reorganization

NEW YORK, March 29—(UP)—Former President Herbert Hoover returned today from an extensive tour of Europe and recommended that the neutrality law be repealed and that the President be given authority to determine America's relationship with warring nations.

Mr. Hoover returned on the French liner Normandie. He said he believed that there was no immediate prospect of an European war.

"The spirit I found after visiting 14 countries was one of defense and not offense," he said.

"No country that I know of is ready in the way of military preparations, and the developments of arms has favored defense on land in the last 20 years so that any country would hesitate to move an army on the offensive."

Commenting on affairs in the United States during his absence, the former president said he deplored the senate's passage of the governmental reorganization bill.

Approves; Disapproves

"I do not share the belief, however, of some critics who think that it is equivalent or nearly equivalent to dictatorship," he said. "I think it is too bad that this bill has been passed, especially in regard to the change in the comptroller general's office and in the civil service, and also in giving the President more or less control over independent agencies. However, other parts of the bill dealing with general departmental reorganization I have always favored. But the first three points of the bill mean further centralization of government."

It had been Mr. Hoover's first trip to Europe since 1919.

He believed that European statesmen were "pretty able in getting past the rocks," and that they were working hard for peace.

"Despite the war preparations, there is always the chance to avoid war," he said. "I do not feel that the possibility of lasting peace is at all hopeless."

As for permitting the President broader authority in neutrality policies, Mr. Hoover said: "Neutrality is about as dynamic as war itself. No one can anticipate what future conditions may be, or what tactics may be necessary to maintain neutrality."

He said that "the idea of maintaining peace by economic force is certainly dead, and I have the impression that the present rearmament is more likely to mean a readjustment of the balance of power in Europe than anything else."

Totalitarians Gain

Mr. Hoover said the most notable change that he noted in Europe after 19 years was the trend from democracy to totalitarian governments.

"At one time, if you include the Kerensky government of Russia, there were 500,000,000 people in Europe under democratic government," he said. "Now there are about 130,000,000 Europeans under democratic government."

He observed a "fundamental backwardness of economic movements," he said, with none except a few Baltic countries having balanced budgets. Among the outstanding forces at work, he said, were the move toward self sufficiency and "just plain fear."

Asked him how it happened he became a druggist. Said when he was just a youngster, they gave him sugar coated pills and he liked 'em, so somehow he got the idea he'd be a druggist and have plenty of these good pills handy whenever he wanted a few. Was with the late Joe Noecker, Circleville, dishing out drugs and everything for two years and kept on studying until the pharmacy board gave him the papers so he could run a shop of his own and he has been at it ever since.

SENS. BULKLEY, DONAHEY SPLIT ON MAJOR BILL

Former Reverses Ballot To Aid In Passage Of Reorganization

VIC OPPOSES LAW

Clevelanders Tells Why He Altered Stand

WASHINGTON, March 29—(UP)—Senator Robert J. Bulkley, D., O., today explained that he "gave everybody a break" in switching his vote on the reorganization bill in the senate yesterday.

Bulkley, only senator to change his stand on the two roll calls, first voted to send the measure back to committee. After the senate defeated the recommitment action, Bulkley voted with the majority for passage if the bill.

"I gave everybody a break and voted both ways," he said.

Senator Vic Donahey, D., O., followed his announced intention of opposing the reorganization proposal on both roll calls.

Bulkley in his explanation said: "The bill had several bad features which I think should have had further consideration in committee. But since the senate did not see fit to recommit, I saw no good in further delay."

"I have complete confidence in the President in carrying out the reorganization provided in the bill. While arguments against the bill had some force, I think they were exaggerated."

Bulkley's office received more than 7,000 telegrams opposing the bill compared with only a few favoring enactment.

On each roll call, he waited until the clerk had completed the first reading and then announced his vote.

RAIN'S "DRY" IN OREGON

SALEM, Ore. (UP)—Oregon rain is dry rain. That is how CCC enrollee from Georgia described it in a letter to his family. When the youth gave the letter to the camp educational instructor for correction, he was asked what he meant by "dry rain." He replied, "In Georgia rain pours down, but in Oregon it rains a lot drier."

AT THE GRAND

Half the town of Laguna Beach, California, turned out recently in various states of dishabille when a cannon was fired without warning on their beautiful beach.

The alarm was soon quieted when it was discovered that a group of cameramen and players from Warner Bros. were merely making a scene for "The Life of Emile Zola," but the residents remained on the cliffs to watch throughout the day.

WORLD GROUPS FOR IMPROVING LIFE TOTAL 806

GENEVA (UP)—There are 137 more international organizations aimed at making the world a better place to live in, today, than there were two years ago.

The League of Nations Handbook of International Organizations, just issued here, reveals that there are now 806 such institutions as compared to the total of 669 in 1936 when the last previous figures were compiled. The largest increase was shown in international organizations devoted to humanitarian reforms, of which there were 102 in 1936 as against 123 today.

The second largest rise was marked in the domain of feminism with an increase of 17 over the 9 listed in 1936. Organizations aimed at establishment of peace throughout the world were ranked third, jumping from 36 to 48. The only decrease recorded concerned those international bodies given over to improving communications and transit facilities, which dropped from 49 to 45.

California Cotton Thrives

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—California produced its largest cotton crop this year. It is now being harvested.

Pret' near any job would be a lot easier if a fella'd just think about what he's tryin' to accomplish instead of how much work he's doing. The reason an old man can walk five miles around a golf course is because he keeps thinkin' about what he's gonna do to that ball when he gets to it. If he had to get out and walk five miles down a good paved highway, it would probably kill him.

I know an old man who ran an elevator for 35 years. Finally one day he went to the boss and he says "I'm quittin"—the elevator inspector told me today that that thing weighs 4,000 pounds and that's too heavy a load for an old man like me to be liftin'."

Movie on Cub Program Is Planned Wednesday

A motion picture on Cubbing, released by the Boy Scouts of America, will be shown Wednesday evening at the Circleville Methodist church at 7:30 to parents and boys interested in the formation of a local Cub Pack. Mrs. Barton Deming is chairman of the organization committee. Other committee members are Mrs. Clark Will and Mrs. Guy Pettit.

The meeting will be the last of a series designed to train and inform parents in the Cub program for boys of pre-Scout age. The two previous meetings have been well-attended by both fathers and mothers, Mrs. Deming declared, and the organization of a Cub Pack is assured. The local Council requires the parents' training meetings before the actual organization in order that the parents of the prospective Cubbs will have a complete understanding of the ideals and activities of the Cubbs and so that the Pack and volunteer leaders will have their cooperation.

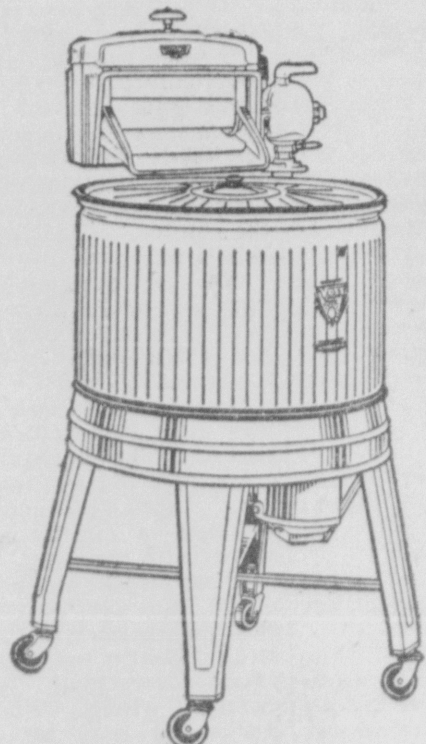

In addition to the movie, information concerning the "Den" will be presented by Howard Kautz, local field scout executive. The first meeting covered the Cub Achievement program and the second the organization and operation of the "Pack." The "Den," according to Kautz, is the natural neighborhood play group in and through which the activities and progress of Cubbing is effected. It is, therefore, the most important unit in the Cub organization. Every parent of a prospective Cub should attend the last meeting. Boys must be accompanied by an adult.

THE BARCELONA HORROR

THERE is still some decency left in Europe, as evidenced by the belated action of Great Britain and France in protesting the murderous air raids of Gen. Franco's insurgent air forces on the populous city of Barcelona. It will probably not impress the rebel commander, however, nor the Italian and German governments that back him, when the protesting democracies call those attacks "contrary to the principles of international law."

There is no more international law. The only law that the fascist or authoritarian governments respect is that of their own "will to power." They acknowledge no humanitarian duties except to their own people. Nations, in their relations with each other, have gone anti-social to a degree that would have been incredible before 1914.

What does it matter now that more than a thousand civilians—men, women and children—were blown to pieces in the wreckage of their own homes, and two thousand were crippled for life? These were the enemy's people, and so fair prey. It is regarded as legitimate strategy to murder and maim noncombatants behind the battle lines, to weaken the morale of the soldiers at the front.

This is more barbarous than the savagery of any primitive tribe now living in the world. It is only "civilized man" that is capable of such conduct. The men chiefly responsible are Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, self-appointed messiahs, and the followers who regard them as almost divine and justify their deeds.

DOLLS TO SCOLD

THERE may be more to dolls and dummies than meets the eye. Clinton Mumby, staff psychologist for the Child and Family Agency in Toledo, O., has had remarkable success with what he calls his "play technique."

In handling several unbalanced children, he found that they had been upset by members of their families who were too dominating. The children seemed to feel that they had no lives or will of their own, and didn't know what to do about it, and their bottled-up resentment was doing serious harm to their minds and emotions.

Well, Mr. Mumby provided them with dolls representing the too masterly relatives, and the children were encouraged to vent their suppressed grudges on the dolls. They joyfully proceeded to bang those dolls around and tell them what to do and where to get off. Thus they got the poison out of their little systems and all was well again.

Probably most people, at times, need some sort of whipping-boy. One of the finest things about Charlie McCarthy is

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

FDR'S WORDS AID ADVISERS

WASHINGTON—The President's tough-talking speech at Gainesville, Georgia, grated harshly on the ears of certain elements, but to his close advisers it came like the voices of singing angels.

They had awaited the address with bated breath as an indication of the peerless leader's frame of mind. What they specifically wanted to know was whether he was going to continue taking his base on balls, or was going to step to the plate and hit his way out of the current six months coma of inaction.

So the fighting words at Gainesville pepped them up enormously, and they are now hopeful that he will bestir himself energetically regarding the recession.

For a while the President is pondering the economic problem under the balmy skies of his Warm Springs retreat. But daily it becomes clearer that unless the President acts with the old-time Roosevelt vigor, he may spend his last two years in office as bitterly disliked as the ill-fated Herbert Hoover.

PEOPLE EXPECT MIRACLES

The most important question asked by American business men today is: "Why doesn't Roosevelt do something to end the recession?"

Having won for himself the reputation of "miracle man"; and having been given greater power than any other peace-time President, Roosevelt is paying the penalty.

People remember the decisive way in which he acted during his first term. They have been especially reminded of this of late by reading his own description of what he did in 1933 during the bank holiday and unemployment crisis.

Now they are wondering at the reason for the inactivity. And those who are doing the wondering strangely enough, include some of the closest friends around him. They are just as mystified as his most caustic critics.

They are mystified, and even more discouraged. One of them, a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission and a staunch believer in stock market regulation, remarked:

"When the Ship of State is listing, what difference does it make if the passengers in the first class cabin cheat at cards?"

ROOSEVELT MYSTERY

Various explanations are put forward by members of the Inner Circle for Roosevelt's six month inactivity. Most of them are pure speculation, but they include.

He is preoccupied with the sinister international situation.

He wanted Congress to push him into spending more relief and emergency money.

He wanted businessmen to push him.

He didn't want to begin a new spending program himself because it would be an admission that the 1936 recovery was built on insecure foundation.

He didn't believe that the recession was going to be serious, thought it would right itself with a little breathing spell to business.

the way he serves in that capacity for his interlocutors.

CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Garry Page, New York columnist, has just returned from abroad. At the pier he was greeted by Barbara Kingsley, who came to New York a few weeks previously, the day before Garry sailed for Europe, to fill a vacancy on a child magazine at the suggestion of her close friend, Natalie Kendall. Barbara and Garry became interested in each other when she was society editor of the Martinsville Post and Garry had come to Martinsville for a wedding. Jack Metcalf, an artist, and Ruth Merryweather, an attractive heiress, both close friends of Garry's, had taken a kindly interest in Barbara during Garry's stay abroad. Julia, Barbara's cousin from Martinsville, in New York, for a visit, moves into Barbara's apartment unexpectedly. Barbara returns from meeting Garry at the boat and finds a raucous party in progress. She is dismayed as Garry calls for her that evening. Barbara agrees to find the party still going when Garry brings her back to her apartment and orders Julia and the others to leave. Jimmy Minton, a notorious playboy, gets frisky and Garry knocks him down.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 14

GARRY READ Barbara's thoughts when Jimmy Minton and his companions had gone.

"You poor kid, you're homesick and tired to death and you hate this mad scene, don't you?"

Barbara nodded. She was close to tears. The mirror that lined the counter wall showed her a slim girl in a perky green turban with eyes that were big and frightened and red lips that trembled. She had wanted everything to be as merry as a wedding bell for Garry's homecoming. Garry had come straight to her. And now this—She forgot she had been lonely for Peter. She wanted Garry to put his arms around her and let her cry and cry.

When they were in a cab, he pulled her closer and kissed her gently. It was quiet now. She closed her eyes and was still.

Garry took her up to Ruth's penthouse. As he left her, he spoke slowly and his eyes smiled. "Don't forget that I love you."

These words were in the back of Barbara's mind when she went home the next evening. It was six o'clock and the subway trains were packed. Garry had called her at four to ask if he might drop by later in the evening. Remembering how she had planned to have him apartment look when he should come first, she had sighed as she started home. The room looked much as it had last night. Julia was not there. Her clothes were strewn carelessly over things as though she had just got up. She had squeezed some oranges and made coffee and the soiled dishes stood around.

Barbara slipped out of the new black dress and hung it up. She put on a huge bungalow apron that covered her slip and looked around. No, she couldn't bring order to it by nine o'clock. She needed help. She went down to the first floor and knocked at the door of the custodian's apartment. His wife was in.

"Is there anywhere that I could hire a maid to help me clean up for three hours?" she asked.

The woman nodded. "I'll help for 50 cents an hour."

"You're hired!"

When the work was nearly completed and the living room floors shone again, the cushions were plumped and the draperies tied back to let in the starlight, and the wind, Barbara ran down the street to buy flowers and fresh candles and food for the empty ice box. She had time for a bath before the doorman rang. It was Garry.

He liked her home. His eyes said so at once. He sat down in the biggest chair, and she dropped on a hassock at its side, and the play began just as she had imagined it a hundred times in the last month.

He had some pages of his play with him which he read to her. She praised enthusiastically, criticized frankly. And when he left she felt that all the damage of the previous evening had been repaired. She had donned thin white silk pajamas and a green negligee and was in bed reading, when Julia came home. She was alone.

"Barbara, I'm sorry about last night," she said. "I guess they pretty much muzzed up things. But I'm not bothering you any longer. Jimmy is having a house party on his yacht and he's invited me. I'm leaving right away."

"I see," Barbara hesitated. Maybe she had been unkind to Julia. "You know you may stay—It's just the others that I can't stand. Are you sure the party is all right?"

"You're so silly, Babbs. Of course it is. I'll drop you a card from some port."

Barbara went to the window to watch the group who were waiting for Julia. She was still there when Julia summoned the chauffeur to get her bags, and followed him downstairs. Jimmy Minton greeted her and his voice carried on the still night air.

"Was she kind to you, Julia?"

"Why—why yes." Even from the third floor Barbara caught the feigned gasp in Julia's voice. She was pleading with the others to forgive her, Barbara, for her inhospitality. "Barbara is a darling, honestly she is, and she never, never meant to hurt me like this." Julia was a princess who had been wronged, an innocent maid who had been kicked down the back stairs. She was all things sweet and beautiful and desirable.

Barbara stayed at the window, laughing into the night for a long time after the car had disappeared.

It became natural, after that, for Garry to come at almost any time. His hours at his paper were irregular so he never knew just when he would be free and when he wouldn't be. Barbara's own position was less exciting. From nine until five she read copy, wrote captions, arranged layouts of cinnamon bears and new applicants for Mother Goose Row. Now and then she wrote a story.

Unless she stayed to do some extra work, or it was the time of the month when the magazine went to press, she was free for the day soon after five—free to join Garry at a favorite spot where the food was good and the prices low; free to cook a steak for him on her grill; free to settle down with a book before the fire, for a comfortable evening that was usually interrupted by a call sometime late in the evening.

The telephone might ring at one o'clock.

"Sweetheart, did I wake you?"

"You did, but I like it."

"Your disposition is too good to last. Barbara, I've been up all night on an assignment. How about getting dressed and letting me pick you up for some food? I forgot to eat dinner?"

She would be almost ready when he came. Then she would have a sweet roll and cocoa while he ordered his special favorite plate: two fried oysters, two fried eggs, two strips of bacon, a dill pickle, toast and coffee. The restaurant would almost be deserted, the waiters sleepy, the room would be cold. They would be happy.

Ruth had gone to Paris the week after Garry came home. Julia did not write when her trip ended. It ended—for Barbara saw a picture of the party alighting from the boat when they came home. Garry's paper carried it. September and October were gone. November brought frost, and tinsel balls and crimson bells in the five and ten-cent stores.

It was after 11 one night that Barbara's bell rang. She picked up the telephone.

"Barbara?"

"Oh Peter! Where are you?"

"Back in Martinsville, honey, at the same old desk."

"I wish you were here."

"I may be before long. I've sold my book on the strength of the early chapters."

"Oh Peter, how grand!" She was glad for him with a warm rush of old friendship but the joy she felt for Garry's success was something far different.

Peter's voice grew more serious.

He read her some pages of his play.

"Barba, remember Bruce Kemper. The boy who worked under me for a while?"

"Yes, I've met him. Julia had him here."

"Oh, I see. Finished his undoing. The kid's in a bad way—can't pay his rent, sick, hungry, half out of his mind. He called me half an hour ago and gave me an address. Got a pencil there?"

He gave Barbara Bruce Kemper's address. "If you could get some food and money to him, I'll wire you the amount the first thing in the morning. That kid saved my life once at the risk of his own when we were in swimming. He was all right until—never mind. He needs a doctor, maybe hospitalization. Could you send someone to him?"

"Of course, Peter."

"Tomorrow may be too late. He was delirious when he called me. If you could get a doctor there tonight—"

"I will. I'll go over, too. Someone will go with me. I'm so sorry, Peter."

"Call me back afterwards, will you, Babbs? Thanks."

She heard the click that disconnected the call.

Garry was out on an assignment that had taken him from the city for a day or two. Ray Lip-ton might do. He dropped in sometimes, merry and nonchalant about life, politics and love. As a newspaper man, he would be kind to Bruce. She found Ray's number and dialed it.

Ray must have been sitting by the telephone for he answered at once.

"Ray?"

"Hello! It's Barbara Kingston, isn't it?"

"It is. Are you settled with a book for the evening?"

"I was—but I'm not. Where do you want to go?"

She gave him the address and he whistled long and low. "Some neighborhood. Whom do you know in that district?"

Briefly she told him a little of the story, carefully omitting Julia's name.

"I'll get out my car and be right down," he answered. "Poor guy. You say a dame did this to him? He ought to know better. I'll be seeing you."

Bruce Kemper was undoubtedly very sick. He tossed and called out and he mentioned Julia's name. He did not recognize Barbara. She went downstairs to summon a doctor while Ray stayed with the man. They waited until the doctor came.

"I'll have him moved to a hospital immediately," the physician said. "Worry, malnutrition, dissipation—everything wrong that could be wrong. Who should be notified in case of—if anything sets in?"

DIET AND HEALTH

Quantities of Foods Count in Reducing Diet

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WITHIN THE LAST decade very definite advance has been made in the scientific treatment of overweight. When we examine the principles derived from these researches they are perfectly logical, and just what we might expect. They were enunciated by the celebrated physician of Rome, Tronchin, who used to say in praise of fasting, "You gain a point if you cut off the enemy's provisions." In short, to reduce, eat less.

There is another proverb which goes, "To avoid obesity, keep your eyes open and your mouth shut." In other words, sleep less and eat less.

Looking over a reducing menu, one is likely to say, "Why, that is more than I eat anyway." That's because you are thinking of the different kinds of foods. Look at the quantity—that is what counts.

Dr. Clendenening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

First principle for the reducer—cut down the quantity of your food. Small helpings. No second helpings.

A second principle of these researches is not what would be expected. On a strict reducing diet, you do not lose steadily, but in spurts. You may be the same weight for a week and then suddenly lose several pounds in one day. This is due to water retention by the fat and its sudden release. You are losing fat all the time, but the scales don't show it until the end of the week.

So don't be discouraged if you show no improvement the first few days.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana is developing into something strongly suggestive of a possible presidential nominee. I do not exactly know upon what ticket, if any, he might most appropriately be nominated. Democrats and Republicans are so jumbled now that a Democrat conceivably could be nominated by a Republican convention or a Republican at a Democratic convention.

Or any sort of a partisan could be nominated by a coalition convention, which is advocated by some statesmen—notably by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, himself frequently mentioned as the G. O. P.'s 1940 standard bearer.

Or perhaps there will be a third party. Senator Wheeler would be a first-class suitability to lead such a group. He has had experience at it. He was the nominee in second place with the elder Senator Robert M. La Follette on the Progressive ticket in 1924.

AGE IS "RIGHT"

When a presidential possibility is discussed in the United States the question always arises:

"How old is he? Old enough to have some sense? Not old enough to have no reasonable expectancy of living out a term or two in the White House?"

Senator Wheeler is 56—a very satisfactory presidential age. There is nothing the matter with his geography.

These little details signify somewhat. They all are in the Montana senator's favor, for however much they may amount to.

NOT AN ORATOR

The point frequently is made that the senator is a poor orator. It is true that he does not bring down the roof with a crash. He has not a big roar. His periods do not ring.

Nevertheless, he is a wonder in debate. He delivers not a bad, but an indifferent, speech, from the standpoint of elocution.

Monday Club Told Of Interior Decorating

Mrs. Hulse Hays
Elected for Next Year

The March meeting of Monday club was held in the Library Trustees' room of Memorial Hall, Monday evening, with Mrs. S. Neal Hallock of Columbus as guest speaker.

The program for the evening was presented by the Home Arts and Decoration division of the club. Miss Carrie Johnson, chairman, introduced the speaker, who spoke on her career as an interior decorator.

As she spoke, slides were shown of interiors of various rooms to bring out the common errors in furnishing and decorating. In contrast the correct forms and colors were shown. She said that much improvement has been made in the last ten years in furnishing a home with color and line and a more cheerful background. Gayness to brighten interiors helps to react on the tired mind. "There is a more personal atmosphere in the arrangement of homes at the present time, with the homey things we love and cherish, with our books and magazines to make them look lived in and used," said Mrs. Hallock.

Slides were shown of southern, colonial and early American interiors with the maple, ash, and hickory furniture, of simple lines such as were in keeping with the times. She mentioned that the very early Georgian influence came from England with the precious antiques which our ancestors cherished as we do also.

In decorating, Mrs. Hallock stressed that we consider the balance of windows, drapes, furniture, carpets and rugs. She advised adequate lighting and the use of plants for real homeliness. The contemporary modern manner is very simple, with adequate seating capacity, pine walls, or pine paper as a substitute, and stippled floors, made by the effect of splattered painting, or the block linoleum.

She mentioned that Windsor chairs in any of their 125 varieties are very good used along with the davenport and overstuffed chair and convenient tables. This makes an ideal den with drapes of subdued color and harmonious rugs. The modern room must have a definite purpose for every piece of furniture. A powder room for guest use was suggested in her talk, or a closet space large enough for mirrors, cosmetics and clothes hangers. She then spoke of the colonial influence in connection with the canopy bed, and the candlewick bedspread. With the French provincial influence, beamed ceilings, wide door panels, sturdy chairs and tables appeared.

Great dignity can be expressed in the dining room, Mrs. Hallock told her audience. She recommended the use of the ribbon back chairs, Duncan Phyfe table, crystal on the table, and scenic wall paper above a paneled wainscoting.

Mrs. G. D. Phillips conducted a short business meeting following the program, the slate of officers for the ensuing year being named at this time. The new officers include Mrs. Hulse Hays, president; Mrs. Tom Renick, first vice president; Mrs. R. R. Bales, second vice president; Mrs. Orin King, recording secretary; Mrs. Howard N. Stevenson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles Gilmore, treasurer; and Miss Sadie Brunner, member-at-large.

Mrs. Arthur Hartwell, Mrs. Paul Johnson and Mrs. James I. Smith, Jr. are the members of the program committee.

Delegates to the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs to be held at the Deshler-Wallick, Columbus, April 12 to 15 are Mrs. Hays and Mrs. Tom Renick with Mrs. Hartwell and Miss Nell Weldon chosen as alternates.

No Wonder You Are Constipated!

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? Bread, meat, potatoes? No wonder you're constipated—due to lack of "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It means the kind of food that forms a soft, bulky mass in the bowels. It's this mass that helps your bowels move.

The common sense thing to do about it is to eat a natural laxative food. Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast will give you just the "bulk" you need. And it gives you, in addition, Nature's great intestinal-ionic, vitamin B. Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

THERE ARE many reasons why you will want to have your new roses labeled. First, the tags are a means of checking to see if the nursery man has sent the roses ordered. Second, if you should decide to move certain varieties of the roses after the foliage has fallen, the tags are a means of identification. And, third, there is the satisfaction of knowing the names of the roses you have, and in a large rose bed of many varieties this is difficult unless each rose is tagged.

Figure 1 of this Garden-Graph shows the rose bush as received from a nursery, with the name tag wired to a stock. This label should be removed as soon as the rosebush is planted, otherwise it will eventually kill the branch by choking it or by cutting the bark as the branch is whipped about by the wind.

Figure 2 shows a simple method of labeling roses by attaching the name tag to the "eye" of a wire room. Spring flowers in attractive arrangement centered the table. Mrs. Hays and Mrs. Weldon poured.

Right and wrong tagging of roses stake which can be stuck in the ground close to the plant.

The wire stakes can be made at home from galvanized wire. The labels can be kept clean and readable by painting with a transparent shellac.

In your home, your business and your travels every effort is made to eliminate the nuisance of noises. Cooperating in this effort, the gas refrigerator is the only fully automatic refrigerator that has succeeded in producing a refrigerator that is 100 per cent permanently silent. Your nerves are at ease. And you'll find that this silence means a real dollar savings to you! The Servel Electrolux gas refrigerator freezes without any moving parts to wear out and require replacement. Its refrigerant is circulated by a tiny gas flame that operates on high grade gas for less than 2 cents a day. Thus, the refrigerator that offers peaceful silence is the most economical to own and operate. Visit The Gas Company to see the beautiful 1938 models with the latest features. Ask how you can pay for one out of the savings it will make for you.

Bird of Mystery Is Ruffled Grouse

By "DING" DARLING

IN MAKING the choice for the sixteen paintings for this year's Wildlife Week poster stamps, there were many contenders for preference, but there was never any question about the place held by the ruffed grouse in esteem of the naturalist as well as the sportsman.

Yes, here's one more King—King of Upland Game Birds! Partridge in the North, pheasant in the South, the ruffed grouse is a favorite in the eastern half of the United States and far up into Canada.

The mystery of the woodlands is expressed in the drumming of the grouse. Before the snow has left the ground, the males have selected their drumming logs, usually in thickets along the edges of swampy ground, from which to send forth the mating summons. The drumming is a baffling, muffled throbbing, beginning with a slow beat that gradually increases its tempo until there is a continuous sound, like an outboard motor running at full speed—but far, far away. Always far away, whether you are within a few yards of a drummer or half a mile distant on a still day.

Grouse drum by day, they drum by night. There comes in the autumn a strange return of the drumming impulse, and on an Indian summer afternoon, or a misty November night, the tomtom of the grouse fills the air with its soft rhythm, made by the swift clapping of wings against the bird's body.

The ruffed grouse is in other respects a bird of a mystery. At times, in the autumn, grouse seem to go crazy. They fly through windows, invade cities, lose all fear. Old-timers have accused grouse of getting drunk on wild-grapes that have fermented in the sun. Naturalists have given other reasons for the fall madness, among them nature's determination to break up the family flocks.

Another grouse mystery is the periodical decline in numbers. About every eight years, the grouse cycle goes from high to low. A lot of study has been given to this problem, and the explanations range from sunspots to epidemic disease. Yet no one knows for sure.

The ruffed grouse of the woodlands has stubbornly resisted the combined forces of enemy attacks and persists periodically in goodly numbers but some of its near relatives have not fared so well. The heath hen is gone and the prairie chicken of the west clings to a few remote spots in a faint shadow of its former abundance.

NEW STATUTES, TO GOVERN OHIO AMATEUR GOLF

AKRON, March 29.—(UP)—As mediums designed to speed up match play and reduce bickering between competitors, the new statute rule and 14 club limitation will be used in the annual state amateur golf tournament at the Scioto Country club, Columbus, next June, it was announced today by Charles W. Howard, secretary of the Ohio Golf Association.

"The directors of the state association have voted to follow the edicts of the United States Golf Association in all competitions under their jurisdiction," Howard said.

Under the new stymie rule when the balls lie within six inches of each other on the putting green or when the nearer ball lies within six inches of the hole, the ball closest to the hole may be lifted at the option of either player.

Bowling News

Gold Cliff Chateau Lefties, paced by Crissinger's 634, won three consecutive games from the Mader funeral service in the Industrial league Monday evening and while doing it chalked up a new high three-game total for the season. The Lefties put scores of 971, 893 and 980 together for a 2,844 aggregate. The previous high was about 100 pins below that mark.

Crissinger's total was one of the highest recorded in the league this year. The Gold Cliff anchorman tallied 198, 204 and 232, ending his last game with five strikes.

All members of the Gold Cliff aggregation were over the 500-pin mark, 523 being the low.

Bob Campbell's 518 was high for the losers.

MILWAUKEE GETS THREE PLAYERS FROM CLEVELAND

NEW ORLEANS, La. March 29.—(UP)—The initial reduction of playing talent on the roster of the Cleveland Indians was made here today as three rookies were sent to Milwaukee of the American Association on option.

The Indians turned loose infielder Oscar Grimes and Pitchers Tom Drake and Ken Jungles.

When camp opened it was not expected that either Grimes or Jungles, who have had only two years of professional experience, would stick. However, great things were expected of Drake, a star last season with New Orleans in the fast Southern Association.

Drake was given several chances in exhibition contests, but failed to impress it was then decided that a year in the American Association would determine definitely whether the youngster would ever make a major league hurler.

SEXTON, SCOTT FAVORED FOR HALFBACK JOB

Kabealo, Zadworney and Fordham Expected To Be Other Starters

COLUMBUS, March 29.—(UP)—The groundwork for Ohio State's 1938 football team will be laid during the next six weeks as Coach Francis A. Schmidt drills 75 grid-ders. The initial workout was to be held today.

Schmidt expects to have 13 let-terms back on his squad next September, but it will be the reserves and freshmen of last season who will receive the major share of the attention during the Spring drills.

The principal problem as the squad begins its workouts was the finding of a capable left halfback. The Bucks were exceptionally weak at this important position last fall and despite repeated experiment Schmidt never found a satisfactory griddier for the place.

The two sophomores who will be tried at the post now are Jim Sexton, a great looking prospect from Middletown, and Don Scott, former Canton McKinley luminary.

Sexton or Scott likely will be the only newcomers in the Ohio State backfield as Schmidt is counting on placing veterans at their other posts. Co-Captain Mike Kabealo will be at quarter, Frank Zadworney at right half, and Fordham at fullback.

Pete Gales, a regular tackle two years ago, was among the candidates expected to report. Schmidt plans to shift him to a guard berth. Gales was inactive last season because of a knee injury.

The Spring drills will be climaxed by a game between two picky varsity teams.

REDLEGS BLANK WASHINGTON 'S WITH EIGHT HITS

TAMPA, Fla., March 29.—(UP)—The Cincinnati Reds today recorded their first shutout victory of the spring training season and the triumph was doubly brilliant because it was gained by pitchers who are distinct question marks.

Joe Cascarella, waived out of the American league; and the veteran Paul Derringer teamed here yesterday to give the Reds a 3 to 0 triumph over the Washington Senators. The victory was Cincinnati's sixth straight over American league rivals.

Cascarella, who was used sparingly in relief roles last season worked the first six innings as Derringer, making his initial appearance of the spring grind, led off the last three. Cascarella gave up five hits and Derringer three.

Both Cascarella and Derringer had perfect control and did not make a pass. The Senators managed to get only three base runners far as second.

The Reds combed Monte Weaver and Elon Hogsett for 12 safeties.

factory and in many respects contradictory."

Cited As Compromise

Inspired comment made available to the foreign press suggested that Hoda's speech "was a mere compromise" in dealing with the Czechoslovakia minority problem and that it would be considered insufficient to German quarters.

"Only spontaneous and radical solution would bring real internal peace in Czechoslovakia, thereby removing a factor of European tension," the foreign office agency said.

The comment said it was not clear whether Hoda envisaged a new minority regime, merely ratifying the methods applied heretofore "which several minorities in Czechoslovakia, including the Germans, deem inadequate," or whether he intends to go beyond earlier methods.

Berlin, the comment showed, is skeptical and considers it unlikely that the Hoda government will grant full autonomy to the Germans, as was urged by Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten German party.

THREE SECTIONS OF ACT FOUGHT BY COMMITTEE

Senate Passes New Deal Measure By 49-42 Ballot

ber has a separate regional planning bill covering the resources board.

Rep. John Taber, R. N. Y., a member of the house reorganization committee, said that he would demand public hearings on the senate bill.

"The comptroller general, the people in government and the Civil Service Commission should be called," he said, "so that the people may know the facts and learn whether this bill should be passed."

Chairman John O'Connor, D. N. Y., of the house rules committee, declared himself opposed to the whole reorganization idea.

"The house special (reorganization) committee might well let the bill peacefully slumber in the cobwebbed pigeonhole," he said. "This is no time further to inflame our people by such a legislative gesture."

"Right or wrong, the bill would lend nothing toward the problem of solving unemployment—it might tend in the opposite direction —and surely it has no relation whatsoever to reassuring a much abused business world."

Senate Bitter Fight

But regardless of what is before the bill in the house, it hardly can compare with the opposition it encountered in the senate. Not since the proposal to reorganize the supreme court was killed last Summer has the atmosphere of the senate been as tense as when the clerk started calling the roll yesterday on a motion by Sen. David I. Walsh, D. Mass., to recommit the bill to committee for further study.

Senators had been bombarded all day with telegrams and messages urging its defeat. Ninety-three members were in their seats. Galleries were packed and spectators stood in every available niche. More than 100 house members stood in the rear of the chamber.

Walsh's motion was defeated 48 to 43, and a little later final passage was voted, 49 to 42. Sen. Robert J. Bulkley, D. O., switched to support the administration on the final vote.

Six senators, uncommitted before the vote, had held the balance of power. When the votes were tallied five of them were counted with the administration. They were Sens. George L. Berry, D. Tenn., Hattie Caraway, D. Ark., Guy Gillette, D. Ia., Ellison D. Smith, D. S. C., and Elmer Thomas, D. Okla. One, Sen. Ernest Lundeen, F. L., Minn., voted with the opposition.

After passage, however, a parliamentary maneuver by the unsuccessful opponents of the bill sent the bill to the house committee instead of directly to conference.
